

Religious Education Curriculum Coverage

Through our ambitious and carefully sequenced Religious Education curriculum children’s knowledge and skills build over the course of their time at Tudor Academy. Children build up their knowledge through depth studies in each of the six religions – Christianity, Hinduism, Judaism, Sikhism, Buddhism and Islam. They also have the opportunity to explore additional concepts such as signs and symbols, special places and a deeper understanding of concepts such as pilgrimage. Children are encouraged to use their prior knowledge to engage in rich conversation and to begin to understand the religious and non-religious traditions that we have in Britain. This learning helps children to begin to make sense of our complex multi-religious society.

Children are encouraged to ask questions and reflect on what they have learned. They are also encouraged to visit key places associated with the religions studied and to develop their vocabulary.

Each unit is supported by a detailed knowledge organiser which is published on our Academy website and sent home to support families at home. The Knowledge organiser breaks down curriculum content into component parts and draw from the breadth of concepts to give pupils the knowledge they need to appreciate the wider subject.
